Explanatory Notes

1 This achievement standard aligns with Level 8 of The New Zealand Curriculum, Learning Media, Ministry of Education, 2007.

2 Analyse a religious tradition(s) involves:

- considering in detail a religious tradition(s) in Aotearoa New Zealand, and breaking it down into components or essential features
- drawing conclusions
- providing supporting evidence.

The analysis of a religious tradition(s) in Aotearoa New Zealand relates to the contemporary situation. It may focus on one religious tradition, more than one religious tradition or on religion in general. It may include consideration of:

- census data
- changes within a tradition
- attitudes to religion
- religion and spirituality
- worship
- historical developments within one or more religious traditions
- the role of women within one or more religious traditions

- rise of fundamentalism
- changing religious landscape
- religious diversity
- sects
- cults
- new religious movements.

Analyse in depth a religious tradition(s) involves:

- undertaking an informed and coherent discussion of factors that may have influenced a religious tradition(s) in Aotearoa New Zealand
- drawing conclusions based on a range of supporting evidence relevant to the context.

Analyse, with perception, a religious tradition(s) involves:

- providing critical evaluation that reflects the complexity of a religious tradition(s) in Aotearoa New Zealand
- drawing developed conclusions that address the wider implications arising from the analysis
- using a wide range of supporting evidence relevant to the context.

- 3 Religious tradition means a world religion, or a division of a world religion, or an indigenous religion.
- 4 A world religion is a religious belief system that is generally recognised as having independent status from any other religion. Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, and Judaism are examples of world religions.
- 5 Supporting evidence, where it relates specifically to beliefs or principles of a religious tradition, is obtained from authoritative sources within the religious tradition.
